J. Selwin Tait Writes of the Corporation Problem.

LEGISLATION IS BADLY NEEDED

After Those of England, in His Opinion, Would Place Corporation Management on a Sound Basis and GRAPHIC ACADEMY, 315-319 Colorado Building. Relieve Government's Supervision,

Financial Upheavals; Their Cause and Cure," to which editorial reference was made in The Washington Herald some time ago, has been published in pamphlet Washington Herald some time ago, has been published in pamphlet wheel. Apply to MAURICE-JOYCE ENGRAVING CO., Star Bldg. form. That reform of corporation laws is of the greatest importance not only to the public, but to the corporations themselves, and to financial interests general ly, is what Mr. Tait undertakes to demon strate. He discusses the railroad situstion, but his main topic is corporation managemen' in general, which he regards as open to improvement in a number of respects. The present public distrus of investme its in railroad and other cor porate securities Mr. Tait thinks a natural outgrowth of bad corporate prac tices, particularly the inflation of capitalized issues. The money that should have gone into these securities has been diverted to savings bank deposits and rise in the price of realty values and ar immense expansion of savings bank funds which in turn have been largely put into real property. Mr. Tait does not look upon this diversion of funds from corpo rate investments to realty investments as altogether a good thing, as it has affected rents and forced overcrowding it our cities, while enterprises of nation importance have been starved because lack of funds to finance them.

British Companies Acts.

Mr. Tait is strongly impressed with the efficacy of the British companies acts, the should be incorporated into American law. These acts prescribe stringent rules for the organization of corporations, makto manipulate the control of the corpora-tion so as to swindle the stockholders. As to practical legislation along the lines of the British acts, Mr. Tait recommends that "Congress should enact for interstate corporations a Federal law similar to our national bank act, which should include all the protection and privileges of that act without government supervision or responsibility. There should be no at-tempt at government inspection. If the laws regulating the organization an management of our corporations are wise y enacted, the stockholder with his er the past that the stockholder has had no rights of self-protection. These are im-portant points, but the efficiency and Stockholder to Protect Himself,

The ability of the stockholder to protect himself under corporate legislation is point on which Mr. Tait lays especia He asserts that the "fallac which England exposed a half centur ago that the stockholder was able to proto be protected by a law from dangers arising from his own cupidity and care-lessness, as well as from fraud on the part of the promoters." With the proper safeguards afforded by stringent legisla-tion, Mr. Tait thinks the stockholder would be able to take care of himself, and so obviate the necessity of govern-ment supervision in his behalf. In other words, with the publicity which ought to be required of the operations of all cor-

On the subject of publicity Mr. Tait be accompanied by publicity in the full-est terms. If we cannot give to our varied securities the fixed value we give to our moneys, we can at least ear-mark them so that the investing public will them so that the investing public will know that one hundred dollars in actual cash has been paid for each one hundred dollar share, or that value to that amount, fixed by competent and independent valuers, has been given in exchange.

No law can be made retroactive so as to No law can be made retroactive so as to injure the innocent holder, and if we would avoid a still worse condition of affairs than has existed in the past few weeks, we must confine our suggestions to the future. And these suggestions, it must be understood, cover all bonds or lie or through the medium of banking

Legislation Furnishes a Remedy. In order to give the public full confidence in our corporate enterprises so that need, Mr. Tait says, "such legal safe-guards will have to be thrown around all of them, and not around railroad securities only, as will serve to protect the public, which neither in this country nor anywhere else, has ever been able to pro-tect itself." Capitalization should represent actual existing values, not a me or less optimistic estimate of future profits, or the fictitious value placed on his property by the owner and his promo-ters. If proper remedies be applied at once, Mr. Tait is confident that "a reaction will aet in which will be healthful and bene-ficial, and the wound to our country's commerce and finances will close from the bottom in a natural way. Any law enacted must clearly define how inter state and State corporations are to be in-corporated and managed. Let this be done with great clearness and detail, and let the stockholder be clothed with amp powers to protect his own interests at a points, so that the cure of our existin evils may be automatic. Encourage th fullest publicity in the organization and conduct of corporations, for in that, mor than anything else, as a molder of public opinion and encouragement of fiduciary honesty, will the most successful remedy

Mr. Tait criticises the proposal for revaluation of our railroads as tending nurpose of showing the condition and
